

MUSICAL PROGRAM PLEASSED HEARERS

With Voice More Beautiful Than Ever, Madame Alda Visits

LILIAN C. PERKINS.

It was not only the magnificence of program given last night by Madame Frances Alda and her associate artists in Convention hall that made the evening such a wonderful success, but the large audience was hungry for music and they showed their appreciation of the feast of good voices that fell on their listening ears. This was the first of the artist concert to be heard here this season under the auspices of the Robert Police Carson concert course.

Madame Alda was ravishingly beautiful in a gown all white, with a belt in emerald folds, and with a new note in the way of train. Her voice was more beautiful than ever. Her mezzo voice was deeply rich and tender and her lyrin voice perfect. Perhaps she took her audience into the highest sense of enjoyment by her magnificent renditions of Puccini's "Visconti" from Tosca. The familiar aria was never sung more beautifully, her madame's interpretation was faultless. Her bowing and tones sustained the music and associated were the vibrations of the muted cells hovering in exquisite harmony. The dramatic interpretation of Hue's "Just please on reeve" met with much commendation as well as "Paris Americans" by Frank. Four groups were sung by Madame Alda, each number being saluted with the deepest respect in the audience. The diva with her usual fine style.

This was the first concert of the season in Tulsa and the first time the trio of artists have given their program. A more beautiful one has never been heard here. From a programmatic standpoint it was faultless. To Kenora Guti, Casini, the artist's cellist, only the most superfluous encomiums of praise can be given for his masterly handling of the stringed instrument, so far that he has become such a beloved vehicle of sweet sound to music lovers.

To Mr. Theodore Flint as an accompanist and for the group of piano numbers given by him, the critics can only speak in praise. He gave evidence of not only technical skill, but also of an accompanist who was all that could be wished.

Cotton Ginned Early.

Extremely dry weather and the consequent early maturing of the cotton crop is believed to be responsible for the large increase in the number of bales ginned in Creek county to October 1, over last season. The government ginning report just made public, gives the total number of bales ginned to date as 26,412,000, which compares with 22,500 bales turned out to the same date last year. Ginniers report a smaller crop for 1921 than the 1920 crop and state that the bulk of the staple has been marketed.
